Since opening in 1966, Caesars Palace has set the standard for luxury and hospitality in Las Vegas, combining Roman-inspired grandeur, world-class entertainment and unforgettable dining. Available through Dec. 31, anniversary offerings at acclaimed restaurants, including concepts from Gordon Ramsay, Bobby Flay, Nobu Matsuhisa, Guy Savoy and Dominique Ansel, as well as Bacchanal Buffet and Peter Luger Steak House, pay tribute to the dishes and traditions that helped shape the property's early years. From vintage steakhouse favorites and French classics to nostalgic buffet selections and commemorative cocktails, the menus celebrate six decades of culinary excellence.

"Few resorts have shaped the Las Vegas experience quite like Caesars Palace," said Sean McBurney, Chief Commercial Officer and Regional President of Caesars Entertainment. "For 60 years, it has remained one of the city's defining destinations, with dining playing an integral role in its evolution. These anniversary offerings honor the culinary legacy that helped make the resort an icon. We couldn't be more excited for the next chapter of exceptional dining and hospitality."
